

AMPHIBIAN PRESS

Science Fiction

Travelers

NO ONE FIGHTS DIRTIER THAN AN ARCHAEOLOGIST

Archaeologist Nel Bently has her own crew, her own research, and a private patron to fund her passion for dirt. With her trowel barely into the dry earth of Chile's coast, however, Nel learns she and her crew are being watched.

Los Pobladores, known to Nel only as vandals and looters, take issue with any archaeologist brave or stubborn enough to set boots on their land. Nel is both and far from willing to give up the site that will make her career. She must keep her crew, her friends, and her life's work safe, but with a benefactor playing chess with their lives, and angry militants who may actually have a point, Nel is ready to fight dirty.

X-FILES meets LARA CROFT in this snarky sci-fi about where we came from, and where we're going

"Makes you feel as if your world has been changed forever just for having read it..."

-Cameron J. Quinn, author of The Starsboro Chronicles

"The whole concept this story is based on and built around is fascinating, the way V.S. Holmes has written the characters and plot is brilliant... a suspenseful read with lots of surprises, a touch of romance, and a whole lot of promise..."

-Serena Yates of Rainbow Book Reviews

Author	V. S. Holmes
Format	Paperback
Other formats	Mobi, EPub, Audio*
Pages	236
ISBN	978-0-9961330-4-3
Sockists	Ingram
Website	www.vsholmes.com
Twitter/IG	@VS_Holmes
Facebook	Facebook/authorvsholmes

Series:
Travelers
Drifters
Strangers (out 2019)
"Disciples" (Anthology: Beamed Up)

V. S. Holmes is a gender-queer science fiction and fantasy author. She writes the Nel Bently books and the Reforged series, the first of which won New Apple Literary's Excellence in Independent Publishing Award in 2015. She has also published numerous short stories. When not writing, she works as a contract archaeologist doing Cultural Resource Management throughout the northeastern U.S.